I also like babysitting and love little kids and playing with them and teaching them.

Groups I have talked to: KSU Homecoming Pep Rally, Manhattan High School Interpersonal Skills Class, Kansas Farm Bureau Annual Meeting, KC Royals Charity Golf Classic, Special Ed Community Service student organization at Emporia State, Kansas Order of Eastern Star, Stanion Wholesale Golf Tournament reception

What being a Global Messenger means: Going places and giving speeches is so fun! I love spreading our positive message and telling people how it has impacted and changed my life for the better. It is such as honor to represent SO Kansas and to be able to thank people and other organizations for their support and generous donations.

Global Messengers are Special Olympics Kansas athletes who tell their story and spread the message and vision of the movement. Each messenger completed the StrengthsExplorer® program to identify their personal strengths. Then with 12 hours of classroom training learned speaking skills, and built confidence in their ability to make presentations. Each was required to give a 5-7 minute graduation speech to family and friends. Mallory's personal strengths are reflected above.
