Special Olympics has allowed me to be active and social with people like me. It gives me my own special place to hang!”

Kasey is a history maker. She and her sisters are the first quintuplets born in Kansas. She weighted just over 1 pound, and has survived heart surgery and eye surgeries. Her sister Mallory, is also a member of the team.

Special Olympics has given Kasey self-confidence. She likes to be able to bring awareness to issues that are important to her and teach people and change their negative thinking (Like the use of the R-word)

Kasey is a 2 time essay contest winner, Special Olympics Global Messenger, Special Needs Beauty Pageant winner, and she threw the first pitch at a KSU baseball game.
