“Special Olympics has allowed me to compete at my own level when I didn’t have the opportunity to do that before. I have made a lot of friends and have great relationships with my coaches!”

Mallory is a history maker. She and her sisters are the first quintuplets born in Kansas. She weighed just over 1 pound and was born three days before the others. She has had multiple eye surgeries. Mallory works at Zoo Sprouts Day Care.

Special Olympics has given Mallory the confidence to step out of her comfort zone. Being chosen to represent Kansas is an honor to her and she is excited for the once in a lifetime experience, and to share it with her sister, Kasey.

She is a Global Messenger for SOKS, was an honor roll student, and Special Needs Beauty Pageant winner.
